Government Order No. 4640-76—Pg. F. 21-96, dated 5th October 1898, stating that advances under Codal Rules will be given to officials undertaking to build dwelling houses for their personal residence in the new extensions about Kadu Malleswara temple and Doddabasavannagudi, Bangalore City.

READ

Memo Nos. 743—796, dated 15th October and 2nd November 1898, from the Comptroller, recommending the grant, to certain officials of his office, of one year's pay in advance to enable them to build houses in the extensions.

No. 3528-562—Fd. 365, DATED BANGALORE, 28TH NOVEMBER 1898.

ORDER THEREON.—Considering the present state of public health in Bangalore, it is essential that material help should be readily given to public servants who wish to build houses in the new extensions. The Codal Rule provides for the grant of six months' pay to officials in advance to be liquidated in two years. In times of special urgency like the present when workmen cannot be secured without much difficulty, the cost of materials is high, and private loans can hardly be expected, the houses to be of any use must be completed and occupied as quickly as possible. Government consider it desirable, that, under these special circumstances, the Codal provision should be temporarily relaxed, and an advance of one year's pay should be given to such public servants, including menial servants, as may come forward within the next six months to build suitable houses in the new extensions for their personal residence, the amount being liquidated in four years instead of two years, by 48 equal monthly instalments. Half the advance may be given at once, and the other half after the Deputy Commissioner has satisfied himself that the former has been fully spent upon the building

2. Subject to the above exceptions, the rules contained in revised Article 156 of the Civil Account Code, Volume I, 5th Edition, will be generally applicable to the grant and recovery of these advances. The spirit of these orders will, for the time being, be enforced by means of the following general rule:—

"Considering the present state of public health in Bangalore and the special circumstances under which allotment of sites and grant of advances have to be made to officials for house building purposes in the new extensions about Doddabasavannanagudi and Kadu Malleswara temple, Government are pleased to direct that, in modification of the instructions contained in Government Order No. 4640-76—Pg. F. 21-96, dated 5th October 1898, house building advances be made under the Codal Rules, suject to the following exceptions:—

(1) That advances be given to such of the officials and menial servants are ready to build houses for themselves in either of the above two extensions.

(2) That the advance shall not exceed one year's pay in each case, to be given in two equal instalments, the first on application and the second after the former has been fully spent upon the building.

(3) That the advances be recovered by deducting monthly one forty eighth part of the advance from the pay of the official or menial servant concerned"

Under existing rules, applications are entertained only from public servants who wish to build houses for their personal residence at places where they are employed and where house accommodation cannot be had at all or except for prohibitive rent. Mr. Madhava Rao thinks that this rule should be relaxed in the case of the two Extensions in question. He is of opinion that Officials residing elsewhere should also be encouraged to build houses in the above Extensions.

VIII. An officer quitting or removed from the Station where he has built a house, before the whole amount of the advance has been liquidated, will continue liable to the deduction of his monthly instalment until the advance has been repaid; but with the special sanction of the Local Government, he may be allowed to dispose of the house, provided he is thereby enabled to clear off at once the whole amount due; or to transfer it to any officer of his own or higher rank, the future deductions being made from the salary of such officer.

IX. An officer will not, under any circumstances, be allowed a second advance whilst any amount remains due on a previous advance.

X. Applications for advances must be made through the applicant's departmental superior, who will record his opinion as to the necessity for the assistance solicited. The applicant must certify that the sum is to be expended in building only, and pledge himself that, should there be any surplus funds after the house is completed, they will be at once refunded to Government.

XI. The last pay certificate granted to officers under advances must specify the original amount of such advance, the amount repaid, and the balance remaining due.

A form of mortgage bond (See Appendix C C., at the end of this volume) will be issued to officers who may wish to avail themselves of the advance.

Revised Article 136 of the Civil Account Code, Volume I. 5th Edition.

I. Advances may be made under the sanction of Local Governments and Administrations, to officers who desire to build houses, for occupation by themselves, at places where no houses are available, or where house rent is exceptionally high.

II. All such advances must be bona fide required for the purpose of building suitable houses for the personal residence of the officers concerned; and if more is advanced than shall be actually expended for the purpose, the surplus shall be refunded to Government.

II. The advances may be made in instalments when considered desirable, and when so made, repayment shall commence from the fourth issue of pay after the first instalment is taken; but, when the advance is taken in one instalment, repayment shall commence with the second issue of pay. The repayment of the whole advance shall in both cases be completed in two years.

IV. No advance shall exceed six months' salary of the officer to whom it is made.

V. Recovery will be made by the Treasury officer, or other disbursing officer, deducting monthly instalments equal to one-twenty-fourth part of the advance from the salary bills of the officer concerned.

VI. In order to secure Government from loss consequent on an officer dying or quitting the service before complete repayment of the advance, the house so built, together with the land it stands upon, must be mortgaged to Government by whom the mortgage will be released on liquidation of the full amunt of the advance.

VII. The officer must satisfy Government regarding his title to the land upon which the house is or is proposed to be built.

PROCEEDINGS

Dated 20th July 1900

No. 534-573
R. F. 17-98

Sanctioning certain concessions regarding the grant of House-building Advances and allotting Rs. 50,000 in the Budget for 1900-1901 for the purpose of meeting applications for advances.

SBP—23-7-1900—500

No. 534-573—R. F. 17-98, dated Bangalore, 20th July 1900.

Order—Under Article 136 of the Civil Account Code, Volume 1, 5th Edition, the grant of house-building advances to the extent of six months' pay is limited to Public Officers who desire to build houses at places where none are available or where house-rent is dear ; but in their Proceedings No. 3528-562—Fl. 365, dated 28th November 1898, the Government were pleased to relax, temporarily, the Codal provision and to authorise the payment of an advance of one year's pay to such of the public servants, including menial servants, as might come forward within six months from that date to build suitable houses in the Basavangudi and Malleswaram extensions of the Bangalore City for their personal residence, the amount being recovered from the salary of such public servants in four years, instead of two years, as laid down in the Civil Account Code. This concession was subsequently extended in Government Proceedings No. 1569-98—R. F. 17-98, dated 19th August 1899, up to the end of December 1899. These concessions apply only to the case of Government officials residing in Bangalore. There is a large number of officials who are either natives of Bangalore or wish to build in the extensions but who, owing to their living outside Bangalore, cannot avail themselves of the advantage of the Government Order. Moreover, the period fixed for the concessions has expired.

2. There is a large number of sites still unoccupied. Meanwhile, plague has re-appeared in the City and emphasised the necessity for the inducements to move out of the old City being continued. The Government understand that the wave of malaria that is evidently passing over the whole City, and particularly over the Malleswaram extension, has checked building operations to some extent.

3. Under these circumstances, Government consider that the system of advances to be re-paid in easy instalments should be continued for some time longer. The advance system should be placed on an independent basis as one of the recognised methods of dealing with plague-stricken localities or with places like Hoskote and Hiriyur, which, owing to climatic changes, have become uninhabitable. To meet these and other cases of extensions, Government hereby rule that whenever a town has, by reason of changes in climatic conditions or repeated epidemics of plague or cholera, become unfit for habitation, every inducement should be given to the inhabitants by allotment of new sites and affording them facilities for water, and providing them with roads to move to new situations selected by the Deputy Commissioner, in consultation with the Sanitary authorities.

4. Government officials, including servants in the Municipal and Local Funds Departments, will be given advances of one year's pay to be repaid in four years with interest at 4 per cent. The repayments will be deducted monthly from the pay of the officials.

5. These concessions will be in force till the end of June 1901, and are intended to apply only to officials of moderate means. It is accordingly ruled that in no case shall the total sum advanced exceed Rs. 5,000.

6. In the case of officials eligible for insurance under the State Insurance Scheme, no building advance shall be sanctioned unless they have insured their lives under that scheme, nor shall such advance exceed the Bonus payable under the Insurance Policy. In addition to the usual security, the Insurance Policy shall also be pledged as security for the repayment of the advance.

Financial, dated 20th July 1900.

7. The advances to be given under the foregoing instructions will be paid in two equal instalments, the second instalment not being paid until the actual expenditure of the first upon the proposed house—not merely collection of materials—has been duly certified to by the Deputy Commissioner or other authority appointed in that behalf.

8. An allotment of Rs. 50,000 (fifty thousand) is sanctioned and will be provided in the Budget for 1900-1901 for the purpose of meeting applications for advances under these orders.
